

Debt Monsters!

The human mind seems to enter a state of cosmic shock, when confronted with the national debt monster, presented by the politicians when they want to terrify the people of our nation, when they want to force us to accept the thin gruel of austerity and hunger, and lives of destitution upon the slave plantations which we are destined to call 'life'. We seem to be intellectually and emotionally powerless before this debt monster, we fall into states of trance, as if we are mice, hypnotised before the piercing eyes of a snake!

However, let us take a little time and examine this debt monster, by asking some simple questions. 'Who supplies the capital for our loans, when almost every individual, and every nation, is drowning in debt?' 'Who do we owe our debts too, what is his name and address?' 'Why do we assume that the person who lends us money has pre-existing bank capital?' 'Perhaps they are just using their bank license to create bank credit, by monetising customer assets, in a banking 'mirror' called double-entry bookkeeping?'

'Is the creation of our monetary supply based upon the Charter for the privately owned, Bank of England, created in AD1694, the Charter which gave the Bank the power to 'create money from nothing, to impose compound interest upon this money, and to demand taxation from the people to pay this interest?' 'Has this Bank Charter ensnared the Treasuries of almost every nation, in a privately owned debt matrix, which has 'stolen' the world with a dollar created from nothing?'

'Are we trapped within a vice of usury, where a $1 loan at 6% annual compound interest, calculated daily, over 550 years, creates a debt of 214 trillion dollars?' 'When our monetary supply is created at 3% annual compound interest, does this mean that 40% of the retail prices of our goods and services will be owed to the debt bankers, and fully 75% of the peoples' daily income will be lost to the four financial demons, those of debt, interest, taxation, and inflation?' 'Why are we not offered the ancient laws against usury, the laws from Rome, India, and China, which forbade the accrued interest from exceeding the original capital?' 'Would these ancient laws reduce our 214 trillion dollar debt, to $2?'

'If our debts are fraudulent structures, then can they be cancelled, with cartel penalties imposed upon the banks?'

'Should we implement a Jubilee, a period of national debt forgiveness?'

'Can we re-engineer our loans so that they are recorded as interest-free assets, owned by the bank's customers?'

'If the final owners of our debts refuse to step into the light so that we can see who they are, can our debts be cancelled as the proceeds from crime?'

'Is it possible that the entire edifice of international debt has been created by a metaphorical 'Ebenezer Von Scrooge', using a monetary reflection, created within a simple mirror?'

Perhaps it is time then for us to recognise that the greatest treasure in our nation is the ownership of the monetary supply, and that almost every war, and the entire human struggle, is often based upon the distortions of human psyche, created by psychopathic individuals and systems of usury. 'The love of money, is the root of all evil!'

Perhaps it is time then for a tectonic shift? Perhaps it is time we awoke from the dark, gravitational fields of debt? There are two million species upon our planet who use life force as their monetary unit, a power given freely from the cosmos. Have you ever seen an ant colony collapse through debt?

'When will we awaken to the financial wisdom, demonstrated by the powers of Nature?'
